Read absence of any organized system his letter to his sisters and brothers, see therein the motives that led him forward in the discharge of duty. To human sight it does seem a pity that so much manly worth and heroic personal force of character should be suddenly veiled in death. But the Good what is best for his children.

While the tear of grief rolls hot and fast down the cheek in memory of the loved one at rest, yet as mourners we have consolation in the reflection that the deceased trusted fully in Christ and died in the faith of the redeemed. He has gone ahead but a few days, and soon his loved ones will follow him into the silent city.
